

Yala Peak Climbing

Yala Peak Climbing is one of Nepal's easier trekking peaks among whole peaks in Nepal. This peak climbing lies in northern part of Kathmandu valley and located in the Langtang trekking region. For this climbing trail is best combination of Tamang and Sherpa culture on the way to Yala Peak. This trekking and climbing routes head up to the north of Kathmandu in the beautiful Langtang valley region, this is 5500 meters high peak which does not require extremely mountaineering experience. If you would have interest for climbing and trekking experience, that can be enough for this peak climbing.

During trekking and climbing period, trail starts From Katmandu to Syabrubesi by local Bus or other private transportation via Dhunche.

After Syabru Bensi, trek up the valley for three days. During the trekking we will have an opportunity to introduce with Tamang and Sherpa Culture, tradition and their lifestyle. Especially this area is well known as Tamang Heritage Trekking route and you can see the great Himalaya of Langtang Ri, Langtang Lirung and other many Himalayas.

So Trekker and climber visit Monasteries, traditional houses, Yak cheese factory which are best product from yak milk. Also we explore the Langshisa glacier to help us acclimatization, establishing a high camp at 4800 meters from where we make our summit bid. After an alpine start under stars we are on the summit by late morning, with some amazing views into Tibet and across to Shisapangma (the only 8000 meters peak situated wholly in Tibet)
